THE EVENING BULLETIN

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1885.

The profits of the Western Union Telegraph Company for the year ending June 30, were $55,000,000.

Now that the election in Ohio is over, the politicians of the country will direct their attention to the fight in New York and Virginia.

The Cincinnati Times-Star says: "Governor Hoadly can find some consolation in the fact that a Democrat never has been re-elected Governor of this State."

There were 253 new cases of cholera and 109 deaths throughout Spain Monday. There were ninety-one new cases and forty-two deaths at Palermo the same day.

The daily death rate at Palermo from cholera is still very large. The disease is spreading. Information has been received at Washington that it has appeared at Ceylon.

The motion for a new trial in the case of the Commonwealth against Robert Farrel, will be heard some time in December next. A stay of proceedings has been granted until this motion for a new trial is decided.

The Mr. Sterling Sentinel Democrat says: Judge Garrett S. Wall, of Mayville, has announced his intention to be a candidate for Congress in his district. He can be elected and would make an excellent Congressman.

The "elements" seem to have gone back on the Ohio Democrats last Tuesday. The rain ceased, the clouds broke and the skies cleared at an early hour in the forenoon, and fair weather prevailed the rest of the day. How can the Democrats expect anything else but defeat when one of their ancient allies goes back on them in this way?

THOMAS KENTON, a brother of the famous pioneer, Simon Kenton, is still living and resides with a son-in-law in Robertson County. He will be ninety-nine years old at his next birthday, and notwithstanding his age, is still remarkably sprightly for one so old. He moves about with alacrity, and does considerable work yet. He enjoys good health.

LATER news from the election last Tuesday in Ohio indicate that the result is not so bad, after all, for the Democrats. The election of Forkner and the Republican State ticket is conceded, but the majority will not be near as large as the Republicans claimed at first. As usual they were exorbitant in their claims, and their estimates of a majority of 18,000 or 20,000 will in the end sink down to about 10,000—possibly 15,000.

The returns indicate that the Democrats have secured a majority in the Legislature on joint ballot, and if this be true the election of a good Democrat to succeed "bloody-shirt" Senator John Sherman, is assured. The Democrats can rejoice over a victory, if they have secured a majority in the Legislature.

The Democracy of Mason County, in the primary election of last Saturday made its choice of a standard bearer for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney, emphasizing its selection by a majority of 644 votes in favor of James H. Sallee. To fully appreciate the significance of this majority, we must remember that it was gained over so able an opponent as the talented George E. Gill, without the use of money or an active personal canvass. We ought also to recollect that Mr. Sallee carried his own precinct, Mayville, No. 1, by a majority of 203. This free expression of Mr. Sallee's popularity where he is best known, is not only a well deserved compliment, but a declaration of the confidence of the people in his ability and eminent fitness for the responsible position to which he aspires. This vote heralds Mason County's opinion of Mr. Sallee to the sister counties of the district.

If chosen as the Democratic nominee for Commonwealth's Attorney, we confidently predict his election; and during his term of office a rigid prosecution of criminals and a dignified maintenance of law and order.

THE LATE CARDINAL M'CLOSKEY.

Thousands of People at the Church—Soldiers Services—The Last Rites.

Archbishop Gibbons of Baltimore, believed by many to be the Vatican's choice for the late cardinal's successor, read the last and began his sermon at the conclusion of the mass as follows: "Ecce, XIV, the Lord Exalted Atonem. The archbishop then went on to compare the dead prelate with Aaron with whom he said 'The Lord made an everlasting covenant and gave him the priesthood of the nation and made him blessed in glory.'"

He then entered into a long review of the life of the illustrious cardinal and concluded as follows: "Oh, beloved pontiff—may thy soul be this day in paradise. We cherish thy memory, and even in years to come, when thy life shall be viewed through the mellowing atmosphere of time, thy memory, like the memory of Isaiah, will be as the composition of a sweet odor made by the art of the perfumer, thy memory shall be sweet as honey in every month and as delicious music at a banquet. They will speak of thee as the kind and gentle and fatherly Cardinal M'Closkey."

At the conclusion of the sermon the five absolutions were announced by Archbishops Gibbons, Williams, Ryan, Corrigan and Bishop Loughlin, of Brooklyn, respectively. These last rights, which in the case of the deceased—laid as well as clergy—are most solemn and impressive in the liturgy of the church.

When the absolutions were pronounced the remains of the dead cardinal were borne on the shoulders of the pallbearers, preceded by two acolytes carrying long lighted candles, followed by twelve little acolytes carrying candles, and archbishops, bishops and clergy, were borne through the sacristy to the vault beneath the altar where they were placed in a leaden coffin which was then hermetically sealed and placed in the catacombs, directly under the altar.

rest just beneath the pastoral cross. On its head rested his white mitre, and on the left side of the coffin lay his crozier.

Eight veterans of the papal arms wearing blue suits, green caps with gold stripes stood guard four abreast behind and in front of the catafalque. Aside from the gorgeous trappings of the catafalque and the lights surrounding it the draping of the church was, as required by the rubrics, of the plainest character. On the high altar a crucifix, gilded, and before it hung the black tape-pendium. On a side table stood two candlesticks with candles of unbleached wax, one nival, a vase of holy water, the chalice and sacred vessels. Every decoration, small and large, had representatives among the audience, and rich and poor were there in about equal numbers and on an equal footing. There were delegations from three cities composed of prominent Catholics among Boston, Philadelphia, Albany, Troy, Syracuse, Buffalo, Rochester, Bridgeport and Hartford.
